The President Is Assassinated As Dallas Multitude Hails Him

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22-President Kennedy was mortally wounded by a rifle bullet at 12:31 P. M. (1:31 P. M. New York time) today as he rode in an open convertible limousine leading a motorcade through the streets of Dallas. He died in Parkland Hospital 29 minutes later. Gov. John Connally of Texas was gravely wounded by the same assassin while seated directly in front of the President.

Seized soon after as the suspected slayer was a Soviet-loving young Texan, Lee Harvey Oswald of Fort Worth, Police think he may have fired the fatal round from the fifth floor of a building which the motorcade was passing.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, riding two cars behind, was unscathed, but in severe shock. He was admitted to the same hospital as the President and the Governor a few minutes after the shooting. But Johnson was soon released.

Johnson was sworn in as the 36th President of the United States at 2:39 P.M. (3.39 P.M. New York time) in the forward compartment of the Presidential plane at the airport. The new President and the body of the assassinated President were then flown to Washington.

An Enthusiastic Welcome

Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, had landed at Love Field. Dallas, in bright sunny weather with the 46-year-old Governor and his wife and the Johnsons just over two hours before and had received an enthusiastic ovation from 250,000 Texans in this Republican city. The Kennedys and the Connallys were discussing the warmth of the welcome when the bullet entered Kennedy's head.

Tribity Church.

The sudden death of Kennedy, 46, the nation's youngest elected President, stunned the nation.

The assassination left the citizens of Dallay in shock.

They had just begun to congratulate themselves on giving a dignified, friendly reception to the President, particularly after the humiliation of the Adlai Stevenson incident just last month. On Oct. 24, Stevenson, U.S, ambassador to the United Nations, was spat upon and struck with a picket sign here.

All Taken by Surprise

All Taken by Surprise

The swiftness of the attack caught Secret Servicemen and motorcycle outriders by surprise. They quickly unlimbered automatic rifles and pistols, but it was too late. Kennedy was dying.

Mrs. Kennedy cradled her husband's bloodsoaked head in her arms as the limousine rushed to Purkland Hospital. She had screamed in horror, "Oh, no!" as the shots rang out and he slumped down, but she did not give way to hysteria. She repeated unbelievingly, again and again, "Oh, no!" Even as the car arrived at the hospital, a hurry-up call was sent out for blood and for top specialists. But the President died without regaining conaciousness.

Dr. Malcolm Perry, 34, later reported: "There was an

Top city police with many years of experience in guarding Presidents and visiting heads of state said yesterday that President Kennedy took too many chances.

On Nov. 14—eight days before the assami's builet struck him down—the President rode through New York City without a motorcycle escort and with fewer guards than police and the Search Service wanted him to have and the Secret Service wanted him to have.

Authorities believed that Kennedy was too

Heavily Guarded Until Last Week A frequent visitor to New York City, the President until last week had been heavily guarded, had a motorcycle escort, and traveled heavily-guarded streets which had been cleared of other traffic to make way for him. There were those who spoke disparagingly of the interruption of normal living occasioned by the President's visits, and this disturbed him.

Small Guard Not Enough for Safety

He insisted last week that there be no motorcycle escort and that his motorcade stop for traffic lights. His principal protection on the ride from LaGuardia Field to the Hotel Carlyle. 76th St. and Madison Ave., was two city police cars in front of his limousine and one car with Secret Service men immediately health of the Mironuria.

While the President's car was stopped for a red light at 72d St. and Madison Ave., an amateur photographer stepped up close-and took pictures before he was chased off. All this was clear evidence to security men that the small guard insisted upon by the President was not adequate to insure his safety.

Queried on this point, Police Commissioner Michael Murphy officially said, "No comment." But those close to him knew that he and his top brass and the Secret Service were deeply

Some Truth in It

There has been, in fact, little of the back-room way of operating about the President's public life. He accomplished much of his persuation in private convertations—but there has been little secret about what he was doing and why and with whom. He has been a great family man his family has been close and affectionate.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

While riding yesterday in a gala political parade through downtown Dallas, Tex., President John F. Kennedy was shot in the head by an assassin.

The late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy

President Lyndon Baines Johnson

The 35th President of the United States died at 1 P.M. CST—2 P.M. EST—yesterday.

Thus ends, in a terrible tragedy mourned by the nation and, we feel sure, most of the world, a career that was brilliant and a life that was crowded with excitement, ad-brilliant and a life that was crowded with excitement, adventure and achievement.

He was a fine figure of a man physically, a charming and magnetic speaker, a genial and delightful host.

And he leaves a family—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, Caroline, John Jr.—who long since captured the affections of all who admire lovely women and beautiful children.

To them, and to all surviving members of the dramatic Kennedy clan, our deepest and most heartfelt sympathy. Deep sympathy, too, to Texas' Gov. John Commily, who was shot and seriously wounded by the same assassin.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation moved into the case at once. It is a certainty that the FBI's hunt for the killer will be skilled and reientiess. We hope—we pray, indeed—that it may be successful.

President Kennedy was succeeded at once by—who was at first rumored to have been slightly wounded but later turned out to be safe and sound.

To the new President, we wish the best of luck and a most constructive serving-out of the late President's unexpired term.

IDIOCY OF ASSASSINATION

—as a means of gaining desired ends in a republic.

Assassination has its uses in such backward countries as Red Russia and Red China. One could indeed, if pressed, nominate several choice candidates for such treatment in both of those nations.

It Works Out In a country such as ours, though, assassination tends only to weaken the cause for which the killer kills.

A prime illustration of this fact was the murder of President Abraham Lincoln by John Wilkes Booth a few days after the Civil War ended in victory for the Union.

Booth thought he was killing a tyrant. In fact, he killed one of the best friends the conquered South had, Lincoln wanted to treat the South like a prodigal son. His death only put the South's fiercest Northern enemies in charge, and his successor—Andrew Johnson—was not able to defeat their plans to clamp assorted shackles on the South and keep them there for years.

We shall see what the consequences of the assassination of President Kennedy will be. May he rest in peace, as a nation mourns.

Latest from Paris

The most influential single factor determining popular taste in France is probably the chain of 310 Prisunic stores, about to be extended by 40 more outlets. A few years ago, no one with a sense of style or fashion would have gone near them, but part of the new wind blowing through France is the Prisunic team of top fashion and design coordinators led by Parisienne Denise Fayolle, stamping a brand new "home and sidewalk" look. A dazzling all-white silhouette for next summer is keyed to a $6 blouson top, midway between shirt and jacket, cut with an officer collar, patch pockets, shoulder bands and cuffed sleeves. In snowy gabardine, it can be paired to shorts, pants or skirts and capped by a dashing Sherlock Holmes deerstalker hat with front and back visor-all in the same white fabric. More white brings out a stunning ribbed cotton shirt top with narrow collarband and short sleeves, married to $5 Bermuda shorts or $10 fulllength pants. Bands of bright red and mustard braid run . down the trouser side-seams and the front zip fastener of the shirt. As a variation on white, the Prisunic palette introduces unusual combinations of cinnamon and faded pink . for checked shirts and skirts and pairs black and white checked shirts to sun-faded orange-pink skirts.

On the wall of Ford Frick's office, there hangs a large photo mural of a young man in shirt sleeves half standing and twisting, as though trying to avoid a foul pop that has flown overhead, or perhaps to catch it if it rebounds in the stands.

He is squinting in the aim, and there is a large smile on his handsome face. In one hand he holds his san plasses; in the other, the remaints of a but dog. Refore him, atop the concrete dugout, stands a bottle of coke.

It is a picture of a young man enjoying a ballgame — a special young man, John Fitzgerald Kennedy.
